Green-lighting Starlink in Gaza could be start of strategic move

written by Moshe Fuzaylov | 14.08.2024
Moshe Fuzaylov: Hamas, as Israel's central adversary in Gaza, relies heavily on communication infrastructure to transmit information, issue commands and coordinate military actions.

By connecting to an uncontrolled internet network, external actors might attempt to support Hamas or provide assistance through digital means, such as transferring funds, coordinating operations or sharing classified information.

Published in JNS, August 14, 2024.

