Strategic Limbo: Breaking the Iranian Axis

written by Prof. Kobi Michael | 05.07.2026

Prof. Kobi Michael argues that Israel is currently in a “strategic limbo” and must reshape the regional architecture by dismantling Hamas and Hezbollah to effectively weaken the Iranian regime.

He further characterizes the conflict as a defense of Western civilization against radicalism, warning that Iran uses “false diplomacy” as a deceptive tactic to gain time and rebuild its strength.

The full interview took place on ILTV on July 5, 2026.

*The opinions expressed in Misgav publications are the authors’ alone.