

Strategic Patience and the Toppling of the Iranian Regime

written by Prof. Kobi Michael | 15.03.2026

Prof. Kobi Michael discusses the need for a prolonged military campaign to reduce the Iranian regime's capabilities to their lowest point and the establishment of a robust monitoring mechanism to prevent it from reconstituting itself , . He envisions a weakened and fragile regime eventually collapsing from within due to an internal uprising by the Iranian people, supported by international efforts, though he emphasizes this goal requires strategic patience and time

The full interview took place on I24 Channel on March 15, 2026.

*The opinions expressed in Misgav publications are the authors' alone.