

The Looming Resumption of the Iranian Military Campaign

written by Prof. Kobi Michael | 22.04.2026

Prof. Kobi Michael analyzes the high probability of a resumed military campaign due to unbridgeable diplomatic gaps between the U.S. and Iran.

He also explains that Iran's internal power struggles and its misperception of its own leverage lead to a dangerous misunderstanding of its actual, weakened position.

The full interview took place on NewsX World on April 22, 2026.

*The opinions expressed in Misgav publications are the authors' alone.